CLASS ACTION

CASE NO. CV-10-B-3314-S

FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT

1. This is a civil rights action filed pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 to challenge the written and unwritten policies, practices, and customs of the Birmingham Police Department ("BPD") regarding the use of mace against children in the Birmingham City Schools ("BCS") and to protect the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment rights of these children. Plaintiffs are BCS students who have been brutalized with chemical weapons and other excessive force while attempting to obtain an education. Defendants – the Birmingham Board of Education, Superintendent Craig Witherspoon, and BPD – have created a police state within the City’s public high schools, stationing police officers known as School Resource Officers (“SRO”) in each school, arming them with chemical weapons, and authorizing them to use those weapons to enforce basic school discipline. Further, Defendants have not provided SROs with any training on the use of chemical agents in school settings or on children. Teachers, school administrators, and law enforcement operate in close concert with one another, with school personnel frequently calling upon SROs to get involved in minor incidents of childish misbehavior that schools would typically handle as internal matters – without resorting to law enforcement. Instead of de-escalating these situations, SRO involvement often has the opposite effect. Officers are quick to resort to pepper spray (a/k/a mace or Freeze +P).¹ School personnel not only watch but sometimes even celebrate when schoolchildren are maced.

2. As a result of the Defendants’ conduct, all of which is authorized by BPD policy, practices, and customs, the Plaintiffs have suffered severe physical and psychological harm. The physical effects of pepper spray are serious and can be life-threatening. Among the many physical effects is immediate inflammation and swelling of the throat, a reflexive reaction that restricts the size of the airway and limits the amount of oxygen entering the lungs – creating an especially dangerous situation for children with asthma. Physical injuries are not the only negative consequences that result from the use of pepper spray in Birmingham high schools. As a result of the Defendants’ unconstitutional policy, practices, and customs, the Plaintiffs and countless other BCS students have been conditioned to fear and distrust school and law enforcement officials. Plaintiffs’ attachment to school has been undermined, one has dropped out, and all have been robbed of the sense of security and safety that children should experience while attending schools. Mace is used so frequently and so indiscriminately in Birmingham's public high schools that each Class Representative – and all BCS students – faces a real and substantial risk of future and repeated injury.

3. Accordingly, Plaintiffs J.W., G.S., P.S., and T.L.P. bring this action on behalf of a class composed of all current and future students who are or will be enrolled in any high school in the Birmingham City School system – all of whom face, and will continue to face, a real and immediate risk of repeated injury due to Defendants' unconstitutional policy, practices, and customs. On behalf of the class, Plaintiffs seek declaratory and injunctive relief to vindicate their rights, to protect members of the class, and to compel Defendants to immediately abandon the use of chemical and other weapons against schoolchildren and revise their unconstitutional policies. In addition to the class claims, Plaintiffs J.W., B.J., G.S., P.S., T.L.P., T.A.P., and B.J. also bring individual claims for damages arising from violations of their rights under the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution, from the Defendants' conspiracy to deprive Plaintiffs of their civil rights under the Civil Rights Act of 1871 (42 U.S.C. § 1983), and for the torts of assault and battery, and outrage.

Defendants

10. Defendant Birmingham Board of Education (“BOE”) is a nine-member, elected legal body “vested with all the powers necessary or proper for the administration and management of [the Birmingham City Schools].” Ala. Code § 16-11-9. BOE is responsible for supervising the schools in the district by establishing and enacting guiding policies. Birmingham Board of Education, Policy Manual 2009. Individual BOE members are required to “be familiar with . . . [the] regulations of [BCS] . . . , to visit schools in the school district for the purpose of assessing the learning climate and accomplishment of educational goals . . . [, and] to refer complaints to the superintendent.” Birmingham Board of Education, Policy Manual 2009.

11. Defendant Craig Witherspoon is the Superintendent and Chief Executive Officer of BCS. He serves at the pleasure of the BOE. As Superintendent, Defendant Witherspoon is responsible for “see[ing] that the laws relating to the schools and the rules and regulations of the city board of education are carried into effect.” Ala. Code § 16-12-3. In addition, Defendant Witherspoon “[s]upervises all schools and all personnel of [BCS]” and “[i]s responsible for the management of the schools under [BOE] policies.” Birmingham Board of Education, Policy Manual 2009. He may delegate his responsibilities and duties as Superintendent to other school personnel, but such delegation “shall not relieve [Witherspoon] of responsibility for any action taken under such delegation.” Id. Defendant Witherspoon is named as a defendant to this action in his individual and official capacities.

12. Defendant A.C. Roper is the Chief of the Birmingham Police Department (“BPD”), a law enforcement agency created by the Birmingham City Council. BPD is “charged with the preservation of the peace and order of the city, the protection of all persons and property within the city, and the enforcement of all criminal ordinances and criminal laws of the city and the state.” General Code of the City of Birmingham, Public Safety and Protection, Title 9, Ch. 1: Police Department. Under law, Defendant Roper is required to “direct, control and discipline all officers and members of the department.” Id. He is named as a defendant to this action in his official and individual capacities.

13. Defendant Officer J. Nevitt was a BPD employee assigned to the Special Victims Division, Youth Services Unit, as an SRO during the 2009-2010 school year. He is named as a defendant to this action in his official and individual capacities.

14. Defendant Officer A. Clark was a BPD employee assigned to the Special Victims Division, Youth Services Unit, as an SRO during the 2009-2010 school year. He is named as a defendant to this action in his official and individual capacities.

15. Defendant Officer R. Tarrant was a BPD employee assigned to the Special Victims Division, Youth Services Unit, as an SRO during the 2009-2010 school year. He is named as a defendant to this action in his official and individual capacities.

16. Defendant Anthony Moss is a BCS employee working at Carver High School. He is named as a defendant to this action in his individual and official capacities.

17. Defendant Officer M. Benson is a BPD employee assigned to the Special Victims Division, Youth Services Unit, as a School Resource Officer (SRO). She is named as a defendant to this action in her official and individual capacities.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

18. The federal claims in this action arise under the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution and 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Jurisdiction is invoked pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1331 and § 1343(a).

19. This Court has jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1367 over the Plaintiffs' state law claims, as they are so related to the federal claims in this action that they form a part of the same case or controversy under the Constitution and the laws of the United States.

20. Venue is proper under 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)(2) because a "substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to the claim[s] occurred" in this district.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

21. Plaintiffs J.W., G.S., P.S., and T.L.P. (collectively "Class Representatives") bring this suit on their own behalf and on behalf of a class consisting of all current and future BCS system high school students.

22. The class is so numerous that joinder of all members is impractical. Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(1). Approximately 8,000 students are currently enrolled in Birmingham City high schools. The class also includes future members whose names and overall number cannot be determined at this time. Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(1).

23. There are questions of law and fact common to all class members, including but not limited to the Plaintiffs' facial challenge to the constitutionality of BPD's policy, practices, and customs concerning the use of chemical weapons. Other common legal issues include the presence of a conspiracy between BPD and BOE and their collective employees to violate the Plaintiffs' rights, the reasonableness of using mace against children who pose no public safety risk, and the scope of the BOE's duty to protect students from harm. Common factual issues include the severe health risks posed by the deployment of mace against schoolchildren, particularly in a closed environment and with respect to a population with a higher than average incidence of asthma. Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(2).

24. Because the policies, practices, and customs challenged in this action apply with equal force to the Class Representatives and the other members of the class, the claims of the Class Representatives are typical of the class in general. Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(3).

25. The Class Representatives will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class. Each possesses a strong personal interest in the subject matter of the lawsuit and the claims raised therein. They are represented by experienced counsel with expertise in class action litigation and litigation involving children. Counsel has the legal knowledge and resources to fairly and adequately represent the interests of all class members in this action. Fed. R. Civ. P.

26. The Defendants have acted and refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the class in that the Defendants' policies and practices of violating students' constitutional rights affect all class members. Accordingly, final injunctive and declaratory relief is appropriate to the class as a whole. Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(2).

STATEMENT OF FACTS

27. The Birmingham City School ("BCS") system includes seven high schools, which collectively serve approximately 8,000 students.

28. Under the Alabama compulsory school attendance law, Ala. Code § 16-28-3, children between the ages of seven and seventeen are required to attend school.

29. Defendants BOE and Witherspoon enforce the Alabama compulsory school attendance law through BCS attendance officers. BCS attendance officers identify students accused of truancy and refer them to be prosecuted in the Jefferson County Family Court. Defendant Roper authorizes officers of the Birmingham Police Department ("BPD") to locate and pick up students accused of truancy, and return them to their respective schools.

30. BPD is a municipal law enforcement agency "charged with the preservation of the peace and order of [Birmingham], the protection of all persons and property of the city, and the enforcement of all criminal ordinances and all criminal laws of the city and state." General Code of the City of Birmingham, Title 9: Public Safety and Protection, Ch. 1: Police Department.

31. In January 1996 BPD permanently stationed officers in all BCS high schools, except for one magnet high school, and several middle schools with the formal consent and approval of BOE and the Superintendent. Charles J. Dean, "Police Patrols in Schools Growing," Birmingham News, January 10, 1996. On January 9, 1996 BOE provided BPD with retroactive approval to patrol BCS schools. Id. BPD officers had begun to patrol schools the week before. Id. Prior to January 1996, BPD maintained a periodic presence in BCS schools. Id.

32. Officers who are stationed in BCS schools are known as School Resource Officers ("SROs"). The SRO Program is part of BPD's Special Victims Division, Youth Services Unit.

SROs frequently become involved – both on their own initiative and at the request of school personnel – in minor incidents in which safety is not an issue.

33. Each BCS high school is assigned at least two SROs who patrol school property during school hours. SROs are required to report to their assigned school site every day and commence routine job functions, including patrolling school grounds and engaging in school discipline. SROs patrol school grounds with the permission of Defendants BOE and Witherspoon.

34. As set forth below, all Defendants and school personnel are aware that SROs utilize police practices, such as use of Freeze +P (a pepper spray product) and physical force, while engaging in school discipline.

35. As described in the factual allegations below, a long-standing agreement exists among BPD, BOE, the Superintendent, BCS personnel, and individual SROs that SROs are expected not only to make arrests when they witness students engaged in illegal behavior, but also to respond when school personnel seek their assistance in enforcing the BCS Code of Conduct. All Defendants to this action are aware of this agreement. Moreover, all Defendants are further aware that SROs often use abusive and unnecessary force against schoolchildren in the course of their duties, and authorize the use of such force.

36. BCS teachers and other school personnel frequently request that SROs handle misbehavior traditionally managed by the school, such as children who utter expletives or refuse to comply with directives. In effect, BCS personnel often turn their disciplinary authority over to BPD by requesting that SROs handle school discipline. The result is that SROs have become tools of school personnel who have abdicated their disciplinary responsibilities. This phenomenon was acknowledged publicly by Interim BCS Superintendent Barbara Allen, who noted:

"We put SROs (school resource officers) in there to manage the school and serious crimes. They are there if someone commits a felony or major crime," said interim Birmingham school Superintendent Barbara Allen. "But sometimes we have principals who call them to break up a fight. They are busy, and I think it's just easier for them to place the responsibility elsewhere, and that isn't right."

"Other school systems aren't arresting kids for small things; they handle it from within," Allen said. "We call the police."

She said SROs too often are called upon to handle small fights, disruptive behavior and dress-code violations, such as sagging pants.

Marie Leech & Carol Robinson, "Birmingham city schools rely on arrests to keep order,"

Birmingham News, March 22, 2009.

37. Most BCS school arrests are for petty misdemeanors like disorderly conduct or harassment, which are broadly defined offenses that can be used to criminalize a wide range of ordinary teenage behavior. During the 2009-10 school year, 86% of arrests in BCS schools were for minor violations and misdemeanors, while less than 2% involved felonies against persons.

38. As a result of the presence of SROs in BCS schools, Birmingham students are significantly more likely to be arrested than students in neighboring districts who engage in the same conduct. Although BCS educates only 25% of public school children in Jefferson County, BCS was responsible for more than 65% of all school-based complaints filed against students in the Jefferson County Family Court in the 2009-10 school year.

39. On several occasions, Defendant Roper has publicly expressed concerns regarding the criminalization of teenage behavior in the Birmingham City School system. For example, Defendant Roper gave the following comments to the Birmingham News in March 2009:

Roper acknowledges that most of the arrests are for minor violations that should not have involved police.

"They have over-relied on our officers, and our officers have responded," Roper said. "I think the school system should handle minor violations and the SROs should be present and respond when it rises to a criminal level."

"Too many of these kids have been criminalized, and that's not the goal," he said. "The current system is dysfunctional, and that's putting it mildly."

Marie Leech & Carol Robinson, "Birmingham city schools rely on arrests to keep order," Birmingham News, March 22, 2009.

40. Defendants BOE, Witherspoon, and Roper purported to respond to this issue with the implementation of the School Offense Protocol – an agreement that governs BCS arrests and referrals to the Jefferson County Family Court. The School Offense Protocol does not contain any provisions that govern the use of chemical agents by SROs against BCS students.

Properties and Dangers of the Chemical Weapons used against BCS Students

41. Defendant Roper authorizes and requires BPD officers to carry Freeze +P – a pepper spray product. Freeze +P consists of two chemical agents, Orthochlorobenzalmalonitrile (CS) and Oleoresin Capsicum (OC). The product manufacturer claims that "[t]he strong respiratory effects of OC combined with the severe pain induced by CS magnify each other." See <http://www.aerko.com/Freeze+P.htm>. Freeze +P is marketed as "the most intense, incapacitating agent available today." Id.

42. Exposure to pepper spray products like Freeze +P can temporarily eliminate the protective reflexes in the eyes and throat by poisoning the nerve endings that stimulate these reflexes. The absence of the gag and blink reflex make the eyes and lungs susceptible to injury. The chemical ingredients in Freeze +P are known to cause severe and painful effects, including: (a) temporary and permanent damage to the cornea, (b) conjunctiva of the eye, (c) temporary loss of vision, (d) persistent and debilitating pain and swelling around the eyes, (e) blisters under the eye, (f) chemical injury to the eye, (g) blurred vision and redness in the eye, (h) blistering of the eyelids, (i) blistering and scarring of the eyeball, and (j) corneal abrasion of the eye.

43. Exposure to a pepper spray product such as Freeze +P also has severe respiratory effects. Among the many physical reactions to Freeze +P is an immediate inflammation and swelling in the throat, a reflexive reaction that restricts the size of the airway and limits the amount of oxygen entering the lungs. Pepper spray also causes the affected individual to cough violently, gasp for air, and experience a gagging sensation. Pepper spray exposure also presents the risk of apnea, cyanosis, and respiratory arrest. Inhaling pepper spray may cause acute hypertension, which may increase the risk of stroke or heart attack.

44. Asthmatics exposed to pepper spray are at higher risk for severe and possibly life-threatening asthma attacks. Asthmatics may be hypersensitive to pepper spray because the chemical combination can induce bronchoconstriction – a constriction of the airways causing coughing, wheezing, and shortness of breath.

45. Asthma is fairly common among children, affecting about nine percent of all children in the general population.

46. The United States Department of Health and Human Services (“HHS”) has reported an especially high prevalence of asthma among African Americans, particularly among African-American children. According to the Office of Minority Health at HHS:

- a. In 2006, African Americans were three times more likely to die from asthma-related causes than whites. From 2003 to 2005, the death rate for African-American children was seven times the rate of white children.
- b. Generally, African-American children require more treatment for asthma-related incidents when compared to white children: 260% more for emergency room visits and 250% more for hospitalization.
- c. African-American children also have a 500% higher death rate due to asthma-related complications compared to white children.

47. African American children comprise approximately 96% of the Birmingham City School System.

48. Applicable safety standards for use of chemical agents, such as mace or pepper spray, warn that directing the chemical directly into the eyes and face increases the risk of injury to the eyes and that the stream from chemical agents should be directed towards the clothing on the chest.

49. The standard of care for individuals affected by pepper spray is to immediately ensure access to a flowing air source (removing them from the chemical-filled environment), and to immediately flush the affected areas of the skin with water, especially the eyes if affected by the chemical. In addition, the injured person's clothing should be immediately removed to prevent continued exposure and contamination. Individuals wearing contact lenses should immediately remove them.

50. The Freeze +P Material Safety Data Sheet is the official document that sets forth the usage guidelines for the product. The Emergency and First Aid Procedure contained in this document sets forth appropriate decontamination and first aid procedures for individuals exposed to Freeze +P. Individuals exposed to Freeze +P should "flush [their] eyes with large quantities of water to speed recovery" and face "wind or forced air source such as fans or air conditioning outlet." Aerko International, Freeze +P, Material Safety Data Sheet, Prepared June 17, 1991. Individuals sprayed with Freeze +P should "remove contaminated clothing" and "wash affected area[s] with soap and water to avoid transfer to more sensitive areas." The Material Safety Data Sheet further provides that "persons with preexisting skin disorders may be more susceptible to the affects of [Freeze +P]."

51. BPD policy on the use of chemical weapons provides some limited guidance on decontamination procedures:

- A. Following the use of chemical spray the officer will ensure that the subject receives adequate decontamination as soon as practical. The officer should supply immediate medical attention if requested by the subject.
- B. Birmingham Fire and Rescue will be called and will determine whether or not the subject needs further medical attention or hospital treatment.

BPD Rules and Regulations, Chemical Spray Subject Restraint: Non-Deadly Use of Force, No. 113-5, February 10, 2006.

BPD Written Policy on Use of Force and Chemical Restraints

52. BPD's Use of Force policy, Procedure No. 113-3, was last updated on February 18, 2008. Under that policy, officers may carry and use Freeze +P chemical spray during the course of their duties.

53. BPD's policy on Chemical Spray Subject Restraint: Non-Deadly Use of Force, Procedure No. 113-5, was last updated on February 10, 2006.

54. BPD's policy on Chemical Spray Subject Restraint provides, in pertinent part:

- C. The chemical spray may be used in an arrest situation where the weapon's use offers the possibility of lessening the likelihood of physical injury to the arresting officer, citizens on the scene and/or the suspect.
- D. The use of chemical spray is intended solely as a control device to enable the officer to carry out his or her duties in the safest, most efficient and most professional manner with the least chance of injury to either the officer or suspect.
 - 1. At no time will an officer unnecessarily brandish, or use chemical spray as an intimidation device unless the officer is attempting to prevent further escalation of force.
 - 2. Chemical spray is not[,] under any circumstances, to be used as punishment or as a coercive tool once an individual is under control and in custody.

3. The chemical spray is not to be used by officers unless they have a reasonable belief that a crime has been committed and that the intended target committed the crime.
- E. Any time chemical spray is used for controlling an offender[,] the application of the chemical spray will end when the subject discontinues resistance or aggression.
- F. The chemical spray is best employed in one to two second bursts. The spray must be directed to the facial area of the assailant, with the bridge of the nose being the best target area. This weapon is primarily an inflammatory agent, producing the following results:
 1. Involuntary closing of the eyes.
 2. Swelling of the mucous membranes, which results in shallow breathing ability.
 3. Intense burning on sensitive parts of the body.

- H. It should be kept in mind by all concerned that any actual contact with chemical spray to the face or sensitive skin areas will result in the officer being adversely affected by its properties. Caution must be taken while handcuffing prisoners, placing them in automobiles, etc. If contact is made with the actual substance, the officer shall refrain from touching his face with the contacted area until he can wash that area with warm soapy water.

III. AFTER USE PROCEDURE

- A. Following the use of chemical spray the officer will ensure that the subject receives adequate decontamination as soon as practical. The officer should supply immediate medical attention if requested by the subject.
- B. Birmingham Fire and Rescue will be called and will determine whether or not the subject needs further medical attention or hospital treatment.
- D. Any time an officer uses chemical spray for subject control, the officer will notify the on-duty supervisor and complete a Use of Force Information and Statement Report.

55. The BPD's Use of Force policy defines control as "[t]he force an officer uses to influence or neutralize the unlawful, physical actions of a subject under arrest."

56. The expansive language contained in paragraph "C" of BPD's policy on Chemical Spray Subject Restraint: Non-Deadly Use of Force permits and encourages BPD officers, including SROs, to recklessly deploy chemical weapons against individuals, including children, in inappropriate situations and allows officers to respond disproportionately to student misbehavior. Further, as described below, paragraph "C" of the above referenced policy authorizes and directs BPD officers, including SROs, to deploy chemical agents in an unreasonable and unconstitutional manner.

57. As described below in paragraphs 77 through 82, 84 through 101, 102 through 111, 112 through 126, and 127 through 140, the unfettered use of chemical weapons against BCS students, as permitted by written BPD policy, has resulted in the overuse of force in BCS and in violations of the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment rights of the named Plaintiffs and other BCS students.

58. Paragraph "F" of BPD's policy on Chemical Spray Subject Restraint: Non-Deadly Use of Force unreasonably and unconstitutionally instructs BPD officers, including SROs, to administer chemical spray directly into the face of individuals, including children. As provided above, applicable deployment standards for chemical sprays warn against administering pepper spray directly into the face.

59. As described below in paragraphs 77 through 82, 84 through 101, 102 through 111, 112 through 126, and 127 through 140, this directive regarding pepper spray deployment has resulted in injuries to the named Plaintiffs and other affected BCS students, and violates their Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment rights.

60. In each of the incidents described below, the Defendant Officers' conduct was consistent with BPD policy, practices, and/or customs. In his capacity as Chief of Police, and as the official responsible for the training and supervision of BPD officers and their use of force, Defendant Roper is aware of BPD policy, customs, and practices concerning the use of Freeze +P on BCS students.

BPD Practices and Customs on Physical Force and Chemical Restraints

61. As described below, BPD, through Defendant Roper, has adopted and encouraged widespread and persistent unconstitutional practices and customs that permit and encourage SROs to use chemical weapons against BCS students in inappropriate situations and in an abusive and excessive manner.

- a. SROs use Freeze +P against BCS students as a first resort, and without issuing a warning to students.
- b. SROs use Freeze +P against BCS students who pose no risk of injury to other students, to school staff, to SROs, or to themselves.
- c. SROs use Freeze +P against BCS students when they are restrained.
- d. SROs use Freeze +P against BCS students as a form of punishment.
- e. Without regard to others in close proximity to the intended target, SROs deploy Freeze +P in closed school spaces without appropriate avenues of ventilation -- injuring students not accused of any wrongdoing.
- f. SROs use Freeze +P as a way to intimidate and control peaceable groups of students when the groups do not immediately disperse upon order. In some cases, SROs begin spraying students immediately without giving them time to disperse.

62. As provided below, these practices and customs have resulted in injury to the named Plaintiffs and other BCS students and violated their Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment rights under the U.S. Constitution.

63. All Defendants are aware that SROs routinely use Freeze +P against students in the course of school discipline and arrests, even when the targeted child poses no risk of injury to other children, to the officer, to school personnel, or to herself. School leadership at every BCS high school – including but not limited to Jackson-Olin, Woodlawn, Huffman, and Carver High Schools – are aware that SROs use Freeze +P on students. See paragraphs 77 through 82, 84 through 101, 102 through 111, 112 through 126, and 127 through 140.

64. Under BPD policy, any officer who uses a chemical weapon must notify the on-duty supervisor and complete a Use of Force Information and Statement Report. These reports are subject to regular review by high-level BPD officials to ensure conformity with departmental policy, practice, and custom. Any use of force must also be noted in the officer's report of the incident. Accordingly, Defendant Roper is aware of the abusive practices described above given that they are reflected in the officers' Use of Force Information and Statement Reports and officer reports.

65. The use of chemical weapons against students in the Birmingham schools is so widespread and persistent that the use of pepper spray has been the subject of multiple media accounts, including an August 2008 report by Alabama NBC Channel 13 and a front-page article in the Birmingham News on March 22, 1009. A 2009 article in the Birmingham News entitled "City Schools Rely on Arrests to Keep Order" highlighted several incidents involving the inappropriate use of mace on BCS high school students by SROs. Specifically, the article reported that a 16-year-old BCS high school student was sprayed with mace and handcuffed for yelling a curse word, and that a 17-year-old BCS high school student was sprayed with mace and arrested for being “loud and boisterous.” Defendant Roper was quoted extensively in the article, and there is no question that he read it. Despite his awareness that SROs routinely use Freeze +P against schoolchildren who pose no threat to officers, to BCS staff, to other children, or to themselves, Defendant Roper has failed to take action to prohibit – or even limit – the use of Freeze +P on schoolchildren.

66. In each of the incidents described below, the Defendant Officers’ conduct were consistent either with abusive BPD practices and customs for the use of chemical weapons in BCS. In his capacity as Chief of Police, Defendant Roper is aware of BPD policy, customs, and practices concerning the use of Freeze +P on BCS students.

67. Due to the media coverage described above, as well as numerous complaints from parents, reports from BCS staff, direct observation, and a variety of other sources, Defendant BOE and Defendant Witherspoon are also well aware of the policy, practices, and customs described above.

68. In addition, the Southern Poverty Law Center (“SPLC”) submitted a Request for Access to Information to the Family Court of Jefferson County, Alabama on July 27, 2010. The Request sought copies of all police reports submitted to the Jefferson County Family Court that reflected the use of chemical spray against BCS students. The Request included a significant amount of medical evidence, documenting the dangers of chemical spray.

69. Upon information and belief, an electronic copy of SPLC’s Request, including the supporting documentation, was provided to Defendants BOE, Witherspoon, Roper, and the Birmingham City Attorney’s Office within a week.

70. On or about September 16, 2010, BOE and Superintendent Witherspoon were served with a copy of an Order by the Honorable Scott Vowell, Presiding Judge of the Jefferson County Circuit Court. That Order provided, in pertinent part:

1. A copy of this Order shall be served by the Clerk of the Family Court [by] mailing a copy to the Birmingham Board of Education and the Birmingham Superintendent of Education. Any objection to this Order must be filed with this Court (at the Chambers of the undersigned) within fourteen (14) days from the date of this Order or any such objection will be waived.

2. If no objection is received within 14 days from the date of this Order, the Family Court of Jefferson County will produce for inspection and copying all police reports that:

- a. were submitted to the Family Court in connection with complaints filed against students in the Birmingham City School System arising from incidents or behavior that occurred in or at school during the 2008-2009 and 2009-2010 school years; and which
- b. document the use of chemical restraints, including Freeze +P or other mace- [or] pepper-spray products.

71. Neither BOE nor Superintendent Witherspoon raised any objections to the September 16 order. Accordingly, the Circuit Court entered a second order on October 7, 2010, directing the Family Court to produce the documents described in the Order dated September 16.

72. Despite the Circuit Court's orders and the obvious concerns raised by SPLC's Request for Access to Information, neither BOE nor Superintendent Witherspoon took any action to prohibit -- or even investigate -- the use of chemical weapons against Birmingham schoolchildren.

Duty of Defendant Roper to Train and Supervise BPD Officers

73. Defendant Roper has failed to adequately train BPD officers on the use of chemical weapons and, specifically, on the use of chemical weapons against children in school settings. The BPD "Use of Force" and "Chemical Spray Subject Restraint: Non-Deadly Use of Force" policies do not provide BPD personnel with adequate guidance for the appropriate use of Freeze

+P on adolescents and in school environments, nor do they refer to any training protocol.

Neither policy addresses any of the following issues:

- a. The appropriate distance to stand from a subject when administering the spray;
- b. Appropriate use of Freeze +P, and other chemical weapons, on adolescents;
- c. Use of chemical-based weapons in closed environments, such as schools or school vehicles;
- d. Appropriate use of Freeze +P when in close proximity to third parties who are not suspected of committing any crime;
- e. Procedures for effective decontamination and treatment;
- f. Guidelines and cautions for use of chemical spray on individuals that are at a higher risk of injury from exposure to pepper spray, such as asthmatics;
- g. Use of pepper spray as a means to disperse a group of observers; and
- h. Protocol for deploying chemical weapons, including a mandated warning prior to using the chemical.

74. In his capacity as Chief of Police, Defendant Roper has a legal duty to "direct, control and discipline all officers and members of the department." General Code of the City of this duty, Chief Roper must: maintain familiarity with the activities, practices, and customs of officers in all BPD units; ensure their compliance with BPD policy and with state and federal law; and take disciplinary and other remedial action when officers run afoul of these mandates.

75. To ensure compliance, every BPD officer who uses Freeze +P is required to notify a supervisor and submit a Use of Force Information and Statement Report. These reports are subject to regular review by BPD officials. From reviewing these reports to ensure that all officers are complying with BPD policy, and state and federal law, Defendant Roper is fully aware of the use of chemical restraints on BCS students and the manner in which these weapons are deployed in the BCS schools.

76. Despite this knowledge, Defendant Roper has not made any effort to amend BPD policy, practices, and customs to provide specific guidance to officers on the use of force on children. Further, Defendant Roper has not made any effort to provide specialized training to officers to educate them about the specific risks of using Freeze +P (and other pepper spray products) on children, in closed environments, and/or within populations with a higher than average incidence of asthma.

77. Instead, Defendant Roper has continued to condone and approve the abusive and brutal policy, practices, and customs that SROs employ when using pepper spray against BCS students in the course of administering school discipline and conducting school arrests, even where custom and practice is inconsistent with written policy. Specifically, Defendant Roper authorizes the use of pepper spray on students who are completely restrained, who pose no threat to themselves or others, and who are merely in the wrong place at the wrong time.

78. Given the inherent dangers of chemical weapons, the high incidences of asthma amongst African American children, and the reckless and abusive manner that many SROs deploy chemical weapons, Defendant Roper's failure to provide SROs with specialized training and his failure to amend BPD policy, practices, and customs amounts to deliberate indifference to the health and safety of BCS school children. Defendant Roper's deliberate indifference has resulted in the violations to the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment rights of the named Plaintiffs, and BCS students, as provided by the United States Constitution.

Use of Chemical Weapons against Plaintiffs

Plaintiff J.W.

79. In April 2010, J.W. left his third-block class at Woodlawn High School and was walking down the hallway when he saw a physical altercation begin. A group of students began to gather near the scene. J.W. was towards the back of the group. He was approximately ten feet away from the altercation.

80. Defendant Nevitt and an unknown SRO responded to the incident. The unknown SRO approached the students involved in the altercation and sprayed them in the faces with Freeze +P.

81. Defendant Nevitt walked up to the group of observers and yelled at them to disperse. Without further warning, and without giving the students any opportunity to move away, Defendant Nevitt immediately started spraying the observers with Freeze +P. Defendant Nevitt sprayed them for approximately ten seconds, waving the canister back and forth across the group at eye level.

82. While Defendant Nevitt sprayed the group, the students began screaming and coughing as they ran in different directions to get away from the chemical spray that was filling the hallway.

83. Although J.W. was about ten feet away when Defendant Nevitt started blasting Freeze +P, some of the chemical spray landed on J.W.'s face. Upon contact, J.W.'s eyes and nose started stinging and burning immediately. The burning feeling spread throughout his entire face.

J.W. also started coughing uncontrollably as some of the chemical entered his throat.

84. Although Defendant Nevitt had directly sprayed the group of observers standing in the hallway, he did not ask if they were alright or take any other actions to determine whether any of the children were injured or required help. Neither J.W. nor any of the students in the group received medical attention for their injuries. Neither Defendant Nevitt nor any school official took any steps to commence decontamination procedures for J.W. or the other students affected by the Freeze +P.

85. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant Nevitt's actions, which were authorized by Defendants BOE, Witherspoon, and Roper, Plaintiff J.W. suffered emotional, psychological, and physical injury. Plaintiff J.W. is afraid that he will be maced again in the future, and that he will again be powerless to protect himself from the Defendants' unconstitutional policies, practices, and customs.

Plaintiff G.S. & Plaintiff P.S.

86. At all relevant times, Plaintiff G.S. was five feet, five inches tall.

87. At all relevant times, Plaintiff P.S. was five feet, four inches tall.

88. G.S. and P.S. are sisters. At all relevant times, both girls attended Huffman High School.

89. Defendant Clark is a male School Resource Officer. He is approximately five feet, ten inches tall, has a stocky build, and weighs approximately 220 pounds.

90. On December 8, 2009, G.S. was jogging across the lawn outside Huffman High School when Defendant Clark grabbed her from behind by the waist. He did not identify himself as a law enforcement officer or say anything before grabbing her. Unaware of Defendant Clark's identity and alarmed at being attacked by an unknown assailant, G.S. struggled to free herself.

When she broke from his grasp, she turned around and pushed him in the chest to distance herself from him. G.S. did not realize who Defendant Clark was until after she had pushed him.

91. Without saying a word, Defendant Clark immediately pulled out his Freeze +P, raised it to G.S.'s face, and sprayed her directly in the face and eyes. The pepper spray entered her eyes, nose, and mouth, causing her to ingest the product.

92. G.S.'s face and eyes began to burn and she felt like she could not breathe. She began to cry uncontrollably from the pain.

93. G.S.'s sister, Plaintiff P.S., had been approaching G.S. when Defendant Clark sprayed G.S. for the first time. When P.S. was about five feet away from G.S., an unknown SRO grabbed P.S. from behind to stop her from reaching G.S. As the SRO grabbed P.S. and held her, Defendant Clark sprayed a second blast of Freeze +P directly into G.S.'s face without warning, causing G.S. to crumble to the ground.

94. Defendant Clark did not consider whether other students were close enough to be affected by the chemical before he administered the second blast. As a result of Defendant Clark's recklessness, the second blast of Freeze +P also hit Plaintiff P.S. in the face. P.S. immediately felt a burning sensation in her eyes and face, and had trouble breathing.

95. Defendant Clark left G.S. and P.S. in the school yard. He did not assess their physical well-being or attempt to determine their need for medical attention.

96. G.S. eventually made her way to the school's main office. Once in the office, an unknown school official contacted 911 at G.S.'s request. Emergency Medical Service (EMS) personnel arrived at the school and questioned G.S. for 45 minutes, but did not provide her with any medical treatment. G.S. had a hard time focusing on the questions EMS personnel asked because she was crying hysterically and asking repeatedly for her mother.

97. LaTonya Stearnes is the mother of G.S. and P.S. Ms. Stearnes arrived at the school shortly after G.S. went to the office. P.S. informed her mother that Defendant Clark had used pepper spray on both girls.

98. As Ms. Stearnes began to enter the school, she encountered Defendant Clark and asked to see G.S. Defendant Clark would not permit Ms. Stearnes to enter the school and refused to allow her to see G.S. Defendant Clark refused to give Ms. Stearnes any information about G.S.'s physical state and threatened to arrest her if she continued to ask about her daughter's well-being.

99. Eventually, a Huffman faculty member escorted Ms. Stearnes into the school's office, where she sat for 45 minutes before finally being allowed to see G.S. While she was forced to wait, Ms. Stearnes heard G.S. screaming "I can't breathe!" from the next room.

100. Neither school personnel nor Defendant Clark advised or allowed G.S. or P.S. to rinse their eyes, wash their faces, or change out of their contaminated clothing.

101. Nearly an hour after the incident on the school lawn, Defendant Clark took G.S. to Cooper Green Hospital, but it was too late to provide any effective treatment or pain relief. Hospital personnel informed G.S. that they could not provide her with any medical treatment and requested that she sign a form. Upon information and belief, the form was a medical release waiver.

102. G.S. was then taken to the Jefferson County Family Court. She was released to her mother's custody later that day. No formal charges were filed against her. At her release, she still wore the same contaminated clothing from earlier in the day because no one had provided her with a change of clothes.

103. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant Clark's actions, G.S. suffered emotional, psychological, and physical injury. Due to the pepper spray, the skin on G.S.'s face is still discolored. She also experienced painful burning in her face and eyes for over 24 hours, had difficulty breathing for an hour, and suffered throat irritation. G.S.'s hair and skin also smelled like pepper spray for more than 24 hours, causing her further discomfort and pain. G.S. did not want to return to school for several days following the assault for fear that she would be pepper-sprayed again. Both G.S. and P.S. are reasonably afraid that an SRO will spray them again.

Plaintiff T.L.P.

104. At all relevant times, T.L.P. was five feet, two inches tall, 120 pounds, and petite in stature.

105. Defendant Nevitt is an approximately six-foot-tall male, weighs approximately 200 pounds, and has a muscular build.

106. BCS employee Johnson is an adult male standing approximately five feet, ten inches tall, and weighs about 200 pounds with a muscular build.

107. BCS employee Howard is an adult male standing approximately six feet tall and weighing more than 200 pounds with a muscular build.

108. On or around November 29, 2009, a female student initiated a verbal altercation with T.L.P. The situation eventually escalated into a physical altercation. Upon seeing the two girls, BCS employees Johnson and Howard intervened and separated them. Johnson picked T.L.P. up from behind, holding her arms securely against her body, and hoisted her in the air. Johnson held T.L.P. in such a way that posed no threat to herself or others.

109. After the girls had been separated and T.L.P. had been restrained, Defendant Nevitt arrived at the scene. Without any warning or provocation, Defendant Nevitt directed a blast of Freeze +P in T.L.P.'s direction, even though she was still being restrained by Johnson. The pepper spray entered T.L.P.'s mouth, and she began to cough severely.

110. While attempting to spray T.L.P., Defendant Nevitt also sprayed Johnson in the face with pepper spray. Johnson released T.L.P. while excitedly yelling, "It got me in the eyes!"

111. Although T.L.P. was injured by the pepper spray, as evidenced by her violent coughing fit, Defendant Nevitt did not commence any decontamination procedure to rinse T.L.P.'s eyes or face or rid her of her contaminated clothing. Instead, he arrested her and took her to the Jefferson County Family Court, where she was placed in a holding cell at the G. Ross Bell Youth Detention Center (YDC) to wait for her mother. Because no one provided her with a change of clothes, T.L.P. continued to wear the contaminated clothing while she waited at YDC. The allegations in the police report were never pursued as formal charges.

112. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant Nevitt's actions, T.L.P. suffered emotional, psychological, and physical injuries. From breathing in the pepper spray, T.L.P. was wracked by violent coughing fits.

113. T.L.P. is reasonably afraid that she will be subjected to Defendants' illegal policy and practice in the future. She is particularly concerned because the incident described above is not the first time that T.L.P. has been blasted with pepper spray at school while restrained. T.L.P. was previously sprayed with Freeze +P on or around November 17, 2008. During that incident, she was grabbed by a faculty member from behind and completely restrained when an unknown SRO sprayed her in the face and eyes with Freeze +P. Following that assault, T.L.P. suffered from burning sensations on her face, peeling skin, difficulties breathing, swollen and burning eyes, and prolonged head pains.

INDIVIDUAL PLAINTIFFS

Plaintiff T.A.P.

114. At all relevant times, T.A.P. was 5 feet, 4 inches tall and weighed approximately 145 pounds. T.A.P. attended Carver High School from 2007 to 2009.

115. Defendant Tarrant is a male SRO. He has a muscular build, stands approximately five feet, six inches in height, and weighs approximately 200 pounds.

116. Defendant Moss is an assistant principal at Carver High School. He has a stocky build, stands approximately six feet, two inches in height, and weighs approximately 280 pounds.

Pursuant to BCS policy, Defendant BOE “does not allow the use of corporal punishment as an appropriate means of discipline.” As superintendent, Defendant Witherspoon has a duty to enforce this policy and ensure that BCS personnel refrain from engaging in corporal punishment as a means of discipline.

117. On or around August 31, 2009, T.A.P. entered a classroom to begin her third-block class. As T.A.P. walked in, a substitute teacher approached her, accused her of smoking cigarettes, and sent her to the school’s main office to see Assistant Principal Moss.

118. Outside of the main office, Assistant Principal Moss accused T.A.P. of smelling like cigarette smoke. T.A.P. explained that she had smoked a cigarette before school started and off of school grounds. Moss disregarded T.A.P.’s explanation and ordered her to call her mother to arrange to leave school. In an attempt to comply, T.A.P. took out her cell phone and began to dial her mother. Even though he had told T.A.P. to call her mother, Moss attempted to take the cell phone away from her. When T.A.P. refused to give him the cell phone, he became visibly angry and told her that she could leave.

119. Assuming that he meant she could go home, T.A.P. followed Moss down the school hallway and outside of the school. As they reached the door, Moss opened the door and motioned for T.A.P. to exit ahead of him. As T.A.P. walked out of the door, Moss grabbed her from behind and tripped her. T.A.P. fell onto the concrete, stomach-first. Moss then dug his foot into her back as she lay on the ground.

120. T.A.P. heard a student call out “Damn, you didn’t have to do it like that.” After hearing the student, Moss removed his foot from T.A.P.’s back.

121. When T.A.P. stood up, she noticed Officer Tarrant standing close by. T.A.P. bent to pick up her backpack from the ground and slung it over her shoulder. As she slung the backpack, the backpack accidentally bumped Tarrant in the chest. T.A.P. then saw Tarrant reach for his belt.

Because she did not know what he was reaching for, T.A.P. panicked and ran.

122. Tarrant caught T.A.P. after she ran approximately seven feet. He grabbed her from behind and threw her down into some bushes on the lawn.

123. When T.A.P. looked up she saw Moss and Tarrant standing above her. Moss grabbed her right arm, while Tarrant grabbed her left arm. Several seconds later, three other men – all unknown to T.A.P. – approached and held her legs down. T.A.P. was frightened being restrained by five men, and began to squirm under their grasp. However, she did not break free from their hold nor did she utter any threats to any of the men.

124. As T.A.P. was pinned to the ground, restrained by five grown men, Tarrant said: “You wanna act hard? Let’s see how you act when you get this.” Tarrant then removed his canister of Freeze +P from his belt and sprayed a blast into T.A.P.’s face and eyes without warning. T.A.P. felt intense pain on her face and in her eyes, had difficulty breathing, and was blinded. Tarrant then flipped T.A.P. onto her stomach, handcuffed her, and took her to one of the school’s administrative offices.

125. T.A.P. sat handcuffed in the office for more than 40 minutes without any medical assistance. T.A.P. was crying profusely, and Tarrant told her: “Stop slobbering on my table.” When she asked Officer Tarrant for a wet paper towel to wipe her eyes, he yelled, “You don’t need a mother-fucking thing!” Tarrant did not provide T.A.P. with a change of clothing or take any other decontamination measures even though T.A.P. was obviously in severe pain.

126. Tarrant eventually escorted T.A.P. to Cooper Green Hospital, but it was too late to provide any effective treatment or pain relief, and T.A.P. was asked to sign a medical release waiver. Tarrant then escorted T.A.P. to the Jefferson County Family Court. T.A.P. continued to wear the contaminated clothing until she was released to her mother, Barbara Pettaway, at 5:00 p.m. that evening.

127. Barbara Pettaway contacted Defendant BOE the next day to complain about Tarrant's reckless and dangerous use of Freeze +P against T.A.P. A BOE representative told Ms. Pettaway that they could not take any action against the school or Tarrant because Ms. Pettaway had washed the shirt that T.A.P. wore on the day of the incident.

128. As a direct and proximate result of the actions of Defendants Tarrant and Moss, T.A.P. suffered emotional, psychological, and physical injuries. T.A.P. experienced swelling in the face and eyes for 24 hours, blindness for more than five hours, severe burning of the eyes and face, and difficulty breathing. The skin around her eyes was damaged and peeling for a week after she was sprayed. The actions of Defendants Tarrant and Moss were major factors in T.A.P.'s decision not to return to school. T.A.P. continues to experience a deep distrust of the school and law enforcement staff at Carver High School.

Plaintiff B.J.

129. At all relevant times, B.J. was five feet, six inches tall and weighed 140 pounds, with a lean build.

130. On or around September 27, 2010, a substitute teacher, known to B.J. as Mr. Cook, ordered B.J. to leave his fourth-block classroom at Jackson-Olin High School to tuck his shirt into his pants. B.J. complied with the order. As B.J. re-entered the classroom, another student mumbled "Fuck you, Mr. Cook" in the direction of the substitute teacher. Mistaking B.J. for the speaker, the teacher contacted Assistant Principal Gaston, a BCS employee at Jackson-Olin High School.

131. Gaston ordered B.J. out of the classroom. Although the substitute teacher's only complaints were that B.J.'s shirt had been untucked and that he might have used profanity, Gaston immediately began to pat him down and go through his pockets. As the illegal search continued, B.J. repeatedly proclaimed his innocence and struggled to free himself from Gaston's hold. At one point, B.J. tripped and fell to the ground, landing on his stomach. While B.J. lay on the ground, Gaston continued to search his back pockets. After a few minutes, Gaston called Assistant Principal Gates to the scene. Gates is a six-foot-tall male with an average build.

132. When Gates arrived, the two assistant principals restrained B.J. against a set of lockers with his arms spread, with Gates and Gaston each holding an arm.

133. At some point, Gates called Defendant Officer Benson to the scene. Upon arrival, Officer Benson did not take any action or even speak – she just stood there and watched Gates and Gaston restrain B.J. Officer Benson then blasted Freeze +P directly into B.J.'s face and eyes, holding the canister within inches from B.J.'s face.

134. The blast entered B.J.'s eyes, nose, and mouth, causing him to ingest the pepper spray. He immediately experienced a severe burning sensation across his face and in his eyes, and felt as if he could not breathe. B.J. was also immediately blinded.

135. B.J. began to fall to the ground holding his face and gasping for air. The pain was so intense that he began to cry. As he sank to the ground, Officer Benson used her foot to forcibly shove him fully onto the ground, where she held him in place with her knee planted in his back. Officer Benson threatened to administer a second blast of pepper spray into B.J.'s face if he attempted to stand.

136. Officer Benson handcuffed B.J. and took him to the school's main office. As B.J. sat in the office, Gates said: "Woo! That's the first macing of the year!"

137. Officer Benson did not immediately seek medical attention for B.J., nor did she contact Birmingham Fire and Rescue. B.J. sat handcuffed in the school office for more than 20 minutes before Officer Benson escorted him to the hospital. Officer Benson did not permit B.J. to wash out his eyes, nor did she take any steps to get him a change of clothes or advise him to get out of his contaminated clothing.

138. When Officer Benson eventually transported B.J. to Cooper Green Hospital in Birmingham, it was too late to provide any effective treatment or pain relief. Hospital staff informed B.J. that they could not provide him with any medical treatment and directed him to sign a form. B.J. signed the form even though he still could not see due to the pepper spray. No one explained the contents of the form to B.J. Upon information and belief, the form was a medical release waiver.

139. Officer Benson then transported B.J. to the G. Ross Bell Youth Detention Facility, where he was placed in a holding cell at 5:00 pm to wait for his grandmother to pick him up. No formal charges were filed against B.J. as a result of this incident.

140. While in the holding cell, B.J. continued to experience negative effects from being sprayed directly in the face with pepper spray. His face felt like it was burning, and it began to swell. B.J.'s eyes were also swollen, and he could not see for several hours. B.J. experienced severe stomach pains and violent nausea. He vomited twice while in the holding cell, and could taste the pepper spray in his vomit. Because he was never offered a change of clothes at any time, B.J. continued to wear the same contaminated clothing while in the cell.

141. B.J.'s grandmother was not informed that B.J. had been injured by pepper spray, arrested, transported to Cooper Green Hospital, and taken to a detention facility until later that evening. B.J. was released to her custody at 7:00 p.m.

142. As a direct and proximate result of Officer Benson's actions, B.J. suffered emotional, psychological, and physical injury. B.J. endured nausea, violent vomiting, blindness for more than five hours, numbness and burning in his face for more than 24 hours, severe head pains for more than a day, swelling of the face for more than two days, an aggravation of allergies, and pain in the back from SRO Benson's assault with her knee.

Necessity of Injunctive Relief

143. Because mace is used so frequently and so indiscriminately in Birmingham's public high schools, each plaintiff – and each member of the class – faces a real and substantial risk of future and repeated injury as a result of the Defendants' unlawful policies, customs, and practices. There are only three ways for the class members to avoid that real and substantial risk: (a) by attending school in another school system, something prohibited by zoning requirements; (b) by foregoing their right to a free public education and enrolling in private school, which Plaintiffs cannot afford; or (c) by dropping out of school entirely, which would violate the compulsory school attendance law and deprive the students of their rights to an "equal and adequate" education under Alabama law.

144. As described above, the Defendants have acted and continue to act in violation of the law. The Class Representatives and the class they seek to represent do not have an adequate remedy at law. As a result of the policies, practices, acts, and omissions of the Defendants, the Class Representatives and the class of children they seek to represent have suffered and continue to suffer imminent, serious and irreparable injuries.

CAUSES OF ACTION

145. The named Plaintiffs and the proposed class incorporate by reference all of the above factual allegations to support the following claims:

CLASS CLAIMS FOR DECLARATORY AND INJUNCTIVE RELIEF

COUNT I

Declaratory and Injunctive Relief to Protect Plaintiffs' Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment Rights to be Free from Excessive Force

Defendant Roper, in his official capacity

146. Defendant Roper is responsible for supervising BPD and ensuring that the agency operates in compliance with federal and state law. In his official capacity, he is responsible for the "Chemical Spray Subject to Restraint: Non-Deadly Use of Force" policy, which is unconstitutional both on its face and as applied to the Plaintiffs and the class they represent.

147. On its face, the Chemical Spray policy allows the use of a chemical weapons against children under circumstances that are patently unreasonable under New Jersey v. T.L.O., 469 U.S. 325 (1985). The deployment of chemical weapons against schoolchildren in a closed environment is exceptionally dangerous, yet BPD policy and practice allows and encourages this extreme application of force in situations where such force is not remotely justified by the targets' conduct, by the risk they pose, or by any other factors. As such, the Defendant's policy cannot pass muster under the second prong of the T.L.O. reasonableness inquiry, which asks whether the level of force used was "reasonably related in scope to the circumstances justifying interference in the first place." T.L.O., 469 U.S. at 341.

148. Indeed, because the Defendant's custom and practice allows the use of chemical weapons against children who are not accused of any wrong-doing and children who are being physically restrained, Defendant Roper cannot even satisfy the first prong of the T.L.O. reasonableness inquiry, which asks whether any force was justified. Id. at 341.

149. By promulgating an unconstitutional policy and by condoning unconstitutional customs and practices with respect to the use of chemical weapons in the Birmingham schools, Defendant

Roper has violated and continues to violate the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment rights of the Plaintiff class.

150. By failing to train, supervise, and monitor the use of Freeze +P by SROs in the Birmingham schools, Defendant Roper has been deliberately indifferent to repeated and ongoing violations of the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment rights of the Class Representatives and the class they seek to represent.

151. Accordingly, the Class Representatives and the proposed class are entitled to a permanent injunction to remedy the constitutional violations described above and to ensure that the constitutional rights of Class Representatives and the plaintiff class are protected.

COUNT II

Declaratory and Injunctive Relief to Protect Plaintiffs' Substantive Due Process Rights to Personal Security under the Fourteenth Amendment
Defendant Birmingham Board of Education and Defendant Witherspoon, in his official capacity

152. Defendants BOE and Witherspoon have created a custodial environment within the BCS high schools for all students subject to the compulsory school attendance law. Factors evidencing the presence of a custodial environment include, but are not limited to the following:

- a. Defendants BOE and Witherspoon have requested and/or agreed to the placement of BPD law enforcement officers in each BCS high school.
- b. Defendants BOE and Witherspoon have delegated authority to BPD officers to handle school discipline matters that are traditionally handled by school officials.
- c. Alabama's compulsory school attendance law requires that all students between the ages of seven and seventeen attend school.
- d. Defendants Roper, BOE, Witherspoon, and their employees play a significant role in enforcing the compulsory school attendance statute: school officials routinely file complaints against students for truancy; while BPD officers not only file complaints, but also physically transport truant students back to school.

153. As a result of that custodial environment, Defendants BOE and Witherspoon have a constitutional duty under the Fourteenth Amendment to protect BSC high school students from being injured by third parties while the students are on school property for the purpose of obtaining an education. Defendants BOE and Witherspoon have breached this constitutional duty by authorizing, approving, and failing to take any action to prevent the reckless and malicious use of Freeze +P on schoolchildren, including children who are not suspected of any delinquent activity, children who are physically restrained, and children who do not pose a serious threat of injury to anyone.

154. Defendants BOE and Witherspoon are liable pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 for violating the constitutional due process rights of the Class Representatives and other members of the class under the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

COUNT III

Declaratory and Injunctive Relief for Conspiracy to Violate Plaintiffs' Fourth Amendment Rights to be Free from Unlawful Seizures

Defendant Roper, Defendant Birmingham Board of Education, and Defendant Witherspoon, in their official capacities

156. As set forth above, Defendant Roper has violated and continues to violate the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment rights of the Class Representatives and the other members of the class by promulgating and enforcing policies, practices, and customs that have deprived the plaintiffs of their constitutional rights to be free from excessive force and unlawful seizures.

157. Defendants Roper, BOE, and Witherspoon willfully and maliciously conspired among themselves to deprive the Class Representatives and the other members of the class of their rights under the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution. As provided above, Defendant BOE and Defendant Witherspoon, in his official capacity, invited BPD, represented in this action by Defendant Roper, into BCS to administer school discipline and conduct school arrests pursuant to unconstitutional policies, customs, and practices. Pursuant to this agreement, Defendants BOE and Witherspoon have effectively authorized and continue to authorize the illegal deployment of chemical spray against schoolchildren.

158. Accordingly, Defendants Roper, Witherspoon, and BOE are liable pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 for conspiring to violate the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment rights of the Class Representatives and the proposed class.

159. The Class Representatives and the proposed class are entitled to a permanent injunction prohibiting the Defendants from engaging in the unlawful conduct described above.

Individual Claims for Damages under Federal Law

COUNT IV

Damages for Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment Violations arising from the use of Excessive Force against Plaintiff J.W.

Defendant Roper and Defendant Nevitt, in their official and individual capacities

160. By deploying a chemical weapon against Plaintiff J.W. as a means of pure intimidation, Defendant Nevitt violated J.W.'s clearly established constitutional rights under the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments. Defendant Nevitt's conduct fails even the threshold inquiry for Fourth Amendment violations: whether the defendant's action was justified at its inception. In the incident giving rise to this claim, Plaintiff J.W. had committed no crime and posed no threat whatsoever to anyone's safety. Even if the deployment of Freeze +P against Plaintiff J.W. was deemed justified at its inception, which it was not, the use of a chemical weapon against Plaintiff J.W. was unconstitutional in that it was not reasonably related in scope to the circumstances justifying the interference.

161. Defendants Roper and Nevitt are liable pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 for sanctioning, enforcing, and implementing a policy, custom, and practice of subjecting BCS students, including Plaintiff J.W., to excessive force and illegal seizures, in violation of the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution. Because Defendants Nevitt and Roper acted in clear violation of well-established law, of which a reasonable person would have been aware, they are not entitled to qualified immunity. Defendants Nevitt and Roper acted recklessly, maliciously, and with a callous disregard or indifference to the rights of Plaintiff J.W.

162. Plaintiff J.W. seeks compensatory damages from these Defendants.

COUNT V

Damages for Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment Violations arising from the use of Excessive Force against Plaintiff G.S.

Defendant Roper and Defendant Clark, in their official and individual capacities

163. By repeatedly attacking Plaintiff G.S. with a chemical weapon without justification or warning, Defendant Clark violated the Plaintiff's clearly established constitutional rights under the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments. Both deployments of Freeze +P against Plaintiff G.S. constituted unjustified and excessively intrusive seizures. Defendant Clark grabbed Plaintiff G.S. from behind, failed to identify himself as a law enforcement officer, then deployed chemical spray in her face – without a warning – when she reasonably defended herself against his attack. Defendant Clark then unleashed another round of chemical spray against Plaintiff G.S., despite the fact that she had already been completely incapacitated and was, in fact, struggling to breathe. His actions were not reasonably related in scope to the circumstances justifying interference in the first place, and were calculated to injure, punish, humiliate, and intimidate Plaintiff G.S. Accordingly, Defendant Clark's actions constitute an excessively intrusive seizure in violation of the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution.

164. As described herein, Defendants Roper and Clark are both liable pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 for sanctioning, enforcing, and implementing a policy, practice, and custom of unreasonably and unconstitutionally subjecting BCS students, including Plaintiff G.S., to excessive force in violation of the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution. Because Defendants Nevitt and Roper acted in clear violation of well-established law, of which a reasonable person would have been aware, they are not entitled to qualified immunity. The actions of these Defendants were intentional, malicious, and reckless, and showed a callous disregard for the rights of the Plaintiff.

165. Plaintiff G.S. seeks compensatory damages against these Defendants.

COUNT VI

Damages for Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment Violations arising from the use of Excessive Force against Plaintiff P.S.

Defendant Roper and Defendant Clark, in their official and individual capacities

166. By deploying a chemical weapon with reckless disregard for the safety of Plaintiff P.S., and without any reason to believe she had committed a delinquent act, Defendant Clark violated the Plaintiff's clearly established constitutional rights under the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments. Defendant Clark's conduct fails even the threshold inquiry for Fourth Amendment violations: whether the defendant's action was justified at its inception. In the incident giving rise to this claim, Plaintiff P.S. had committed no crime and posed no threat whatsoever to anyone's safety. In fact, Plaintiff P.S. was being physically restrained by an adult when Defendant Clark deployed a second burst of Freeze +P against Plaintiff G.S., also hitting Plaintiff P.S. in the face. The deployment of Freeze +P against Plaintiff P.S. was also unconstitutional in that it was not reasonably related in scope to the circumstances justifying the interference.

167. Defendants Roper and Clark are liable pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 for sanctioning, enforcing, and implementing a policy, custom, and practice of subjecting BCS students, including Plaintiff P.S., to excessive force and illegal seizures, in violation of the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution. Because Defendants Clark and Roper acted in clear violation of well-established law, of which a reasonable person would have been aware, they are not entitled to qualified immunity. Defendants Clark and Roper acted recklessly, maliciously, and with a callous disregard or indifference to the rights of Plaintiff P.S.

168. Plaintiff P.S. seeks compensatory damages from these Defendants.

COUNT VII

169. By deploying a chemical weapon against Plaintiff T.L.P. without justification or warning, Defendant Nevitt violated T.L.P.'s clearly established constitutional rights under the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments. The deployment of Freeze +P against Plaintiff T.L.P. was unjustified, given that T.L.P. was restrained by an adult man at the time and posed no threat to the safety of others. This seizure was calculated to punish, humiliate, and intimidate T.L.P. Defendant Nevitt's actions were not reasonably related in scope to the circumstances justifying interference in the first place, and were calculated to injure, punish, humiliate, and intimidate T.L.P. Accordingly, Defendant Nevitt's actions constitute an excessively intrusive seizure in violation of the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution.

170. By the forgoing actions and inactions, Defendants Roper and Nevitt are liable pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 for sanctioning, enforcing, and implementing a policy, practice, and custom of unreasonably and unconstitutionally subjecting BCS students, including Plaintiff T.L.P., to excessive force in violation of the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution. Because Defendants Nevitt and Roper acted in clear violation of well-established law, of which a reasonable person would have been aware, they are not entitled to qualified immunity. The actions of these Defendants were intentional, malicious, and reckless, and showed a callous disregard for the rights of Plaintiff T.L.P.

171. Plaintiff T.L.P. seeks compensatory damages from these Defendants.

COUNT VIII

Damages for Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment Violations arising from the use of Excessive Force against Plaintiff T.A.P.
*Defendant Roper, Defendant Moss, and Defendant Tarrant, in their official and individual capacities

172. By deploying a chemical weapon against Plaintiff T.A.P. without justification, Defendant Nevitt violated T.A.P.'s clearly established constitutional rights under the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments. The deployment of Freeze +P against Plaintiff T.A.P. was unjustified at its inception, given that T.A.P. was pinned to the ground by five adult men and posed no threat to the safety of others. This seizure was calculated to punish, humiliate, and intimidate T.A.P., as evidenced by his taunting words prior to deploying the chemical in her face. His actions were not reasonably related to the circumstances justifying the interference, and were calculated to injure, punish, humiliate, and intimidate T.A.P. Accordingly, Defendant Tarrant's actions constitute an excessively intrusive seizure in violation of the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution.

173. By the forgoing actions and inactions, Defendants Roper and Tarrant are liable pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 for sanctioning, enforcing, and implementing a policy, practice and custom of unreasonably and unconstitutionally subjecting BCS students, including Plaintiff T.A.P., to excessive force in violation of the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution. Because Defendants Tarrant and Roper acted in clear violation of well-established law, of which a reasonable person would have been aware, they are not entitled to qualified immunity. The actions of these Defendants were intentional, malicious, reckless, and showed a callous disregard for the rights of Plaintiff T.A.P.

174. Plaintiff T.A.P. seeks compensatory damages from these Defendants.

COUNT IX

Damages for Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment Violations arising from the use of Excessive Force against Plaintiff B.J.

Defendant Roper and Defendant Benson, in their official and individual capacities

175. By deploying a chemical weapon against Plaintiff B.J. without justification or warning, Defendant Benson violated B.J.'s clearly established constitutional rights under the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments. The deployment of Freeze +P against Plaintiff B.J. was both unjustified and unreasonable in that that B.J. was already being physically restrained by two adult men and posed no threat to the safety of others or the school environment. This seizure was calculated to punish, humiliate, and intimidate B.J. Even after he had been blinded and incapacitated by the chemical sprayed into his nose and mouth, Defendant Benson continued to use excessive force by forcing B.J. to the ground and holding him down with her knee as he struggled to breathe. Defendant Benson's actions were not reasonably related in scope to the circumstances justifying interference in the first place, and were calculated to injure, punish, humiliate, and intimidate B.J.

176. By the forgoing actions and inactions, Defendants Roper and Benson are liable pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 for sanctioning, enforcing, and implementing a policy, practice and custom of unreasonably and unconstitutionally subjecting BCS students, including Plaintiff B.J., to excessive force in violation of the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution. Because Defendants Nevitt and Roper acted in clear violation of well-established law, of which a reasonable person would have been aware, they are not entitled to qualified immunity. The actions of these Defendants were intentional, malicious, reckless, and showed a callous disregard for the rights of Plaintiff B.J.

177. Plaintiff B.J. seeks compensatory damages against these Defendants.

COUNT X

Damages for Fourteenth Amendment Violations: Failure to Protect Plaintiff J.W.

in his official and individual capacity*

178. By failing to protect Plaintiff J.W. from the illegal and unreasonable actions of Defendants Roper and Nevitt, Defendants BOE and Witherspoon have violated Plaintiff J.W.'s clearly established rights under the Fourteenth Amendment. Defendants BOE and Witherspoon have created a custodial environment within the BCS system for all students subject to the compulsory school attendance law. That custodial environment imposes a constitutional duty on Defendants BOE and Witherspoon to ensure J.W.'s safety and well-being while he attends BCS. Defendants BOE and Witherspoon breached that duty by authorizing and approving the use of chemical weapons against BCS students, and by failing to take action to protect Plaintiff J.W. and other students against the use of chemical weapons. Accordingly, Defendants BOE and Witherspoon have violated Plaintiff J.W.'s rights in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

179. By the forgoing actions and inactions, these Defendants are liable pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 under the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution for failing to protect J.W. from Defendant Roper's unlawful and illegal policies, practices, and customs. Because Defendants BOE and Witherspoon breached their duty to protect J.W. as required by the Fourteenth Amendment and acted in clear violation of well-established law, of which a reasonable person would have been aware, they are not entitled to qualified immunity.

180. Plaintiff J.W. seeks compensatory and punitive damages from these Defendants.

in his official and individual capacity

181. By failing to protect Plaintiff G.S. from the illegal and unreasonable actions of Defendants Roper and Benson, Defendants BOE and Witherspoon have violated Plaintiff G.S.'s clearly established rights under the Fourteenth Amendment. Defendants BOE and Witherspoon have created a custodial environment within the BCS system for all students subject to the compulsory school attendance law. That custodial environment imposes a constitutional duty on Defendants BOE and Witherspoon to ensure G.S.'s safety and well-being while she attends BCS. Defendants BOE and Witherspoon breached that duty by authorizing and approving the use of chemical weapons against BCS students, and by failing to take action to protect Plaintiff G.S. and other students against the use of chemical weapons. Accordingly, Defendants BOE and Witherspoon have violated Plaintiff G.S.'s rights in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

182. By the forgoing actions and inactions, these Defendants are liable pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 under the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution for failing to protect

G.S. from Defendant Roper's unlawful and illegal policies, practices, and customs. Because Defendants BOE and Witherspoon breached their duty to protect G.S. as required by the Fourteenth Amendment and acted in clear violation of well-established law, of which a reasonable person would have been aware, they are not entitled to qualified immunity.

183. Plaintiff G.S. seeks compensatory and punitive damages from these Defendants.

Defendant Birmingham Board of Education and Defendant Witherspoon,
in his official and individual capacity

184. That custodial environment imposes a constitutional duty on Defendants BOE and Witherspoon to ensure P.S.'s safety and well-being while she attends BCS. 185. By the forgoing actions and inactions, these Defendants are liable pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 under the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution for failing to protect P.S. from Defendant Roper's unlawful and illegal policies, practices, and customs. Because Defendants BOE and Witherspoon breached their duty to protect P.S. as required by the Fourteenth Amendment and acted in clear violation of well-established law, of which a reasonable person would have been aware, they are not entitled to qualified immunity.

186. Plaintiff P.S. seeks compensatory and punitive damages from these Defendants.
