

To:	Seth Levi, Southern Poverty Law Center
From:	BlueLabs Analytics
RE:	AVEV trends
Date:	October 30th, 2020

National Trends

- As of October 30th, over 70 million people have already voted in the 2020 election, both by mail and early in-person voting. Another 28 million people have an outstanding mail ballot. The number of people who have already voted or requested a ballot represents 72.2% of the total votes cast in the 2016 general election. The number of people who have already voted (not including outstanding ballots) represents 51.6% of the 2016 total vote.
- Using modeled partisanship combined with party affiliation where it's available, we can estimate that Democrats hold an 18.2% advantage over Republicans in mail ballots cast (down from 18.9% on 10/28). However, Republicans hold a 1.3% advantage in early in-person votes (up from 1.0% on 10/28). Democrats still have many more mail ballots outstanding by a margin of 14.5% (no change from 10/28).
- Young voters' share of votes cast continues to rise. Voters aged 18-29 now make up 10.5% of mail ballots cast, (up from 10.1% on 10/28) and 11.1% of early in-person votes (up from 10.8% on 10/28). This trend has been consistent day-to-day for the last two weeks.
- Black voters continue to turn out at high rates for early in-person voting. Black voters are just 14.3% of registered voters nationally, but make up 13.6% of early in-person votes (down slightly from 13.8% on 10/28).
- Latinx voters continue to make more use of voting by mail than early in-person voting. Latinx voters currently represent 9.7% of mail ballots cast (up from 9.5% on 10/28) and 8.3% of early in-person votes (down slightly from 8.4% on 10/28).
- The steady increase in vote share of first time voters has continued. 6.8% of mail ballots cast are from first time voters (up from 6.5% on 10/28) and 6.5% of early in-person votes (up from 6.3% on 10/28).

Presidential Battleground

Florida

- 4,008,398 voters in Florida have cast their ballots by mail and 2,762,744 have voted early in-person. Another 1,489,009 have an outstanding mail ballot. The total number of votes cast in Florida so far (both by mail EIP) is 71.9% of the votes cast in Florida in the 2016 general election.
- Democrats are outpacing Republicans in mail ballots cast by 15.4% (down from 15.9% on 10/28). However, Republicans currently hold a 12.5% advantage in early in-person votes (up from 11.9% on 10/28). Democrats still have more outstanding mail ballots than Republicans by a margin of 9.5% (up from 8.8% on 10/28). This is based on official party registration, not modeled partisanship.
- Latinx voters' vote share in Florida continues to trend up, even if just slightly. They currently make up 15.0% of mail ballots cast (up slightly from 14.9% on 10/28) and 17.0% of early in-person votes (no change from 10/28).
- Black voters continue to over-index among early in-person votes compared to their share of registered voters. Black voters make up 14.8% of early in-person voters despite being just 14.2% of registered voters. Black voters also represent 11.5% of mail ballots cast (up slightly from 11.4% on 10/28).

Pennsylvania

- 1,896,772 voters in Pennsylvania have cast their mail ballots with another 1,030,976 voters having an outstanding ballot.
- Democrats continue to hold a large lead over Republicans in mail ballots cast, with a margin of 47.5% (down from 48.1% on 10/28). Democrats also hold many more outstanding mail ballots than Republicans by a margin of 20.7% (down from 22.4% on 10/28). This is based on official party registration, not modeled partisanship.
- Black voters in Pennsylvania make up 11.5% of mail ballots cast (down from 11.8% on 10/28) despite being just 11.8% of registered voters in Pennsylvania.
- White college-educated voters make up 43.6% of mail ballots cast by white voters (no change from 10/28). White non-college voters make up 44.5% of mail ballots cast by white voters (down slightly from 44.6% on 10/28). Both of these rates remain very stable with little movement day-to-day.

Michigan

- 2,252,250 voters in Michigan have cast their ballots by mail with another 103,297 having voted early in-person. 803,337 more voters have an outstanding mail ballot.
- Black voters make up 11.9% of mail ballots cast. This rate remains very stable, not changing since 10/21.

- White college-educated voters in Michigan make up 40.7% of mail ballots cast by white voters (no change from 10/28). White non-college voters make up 50.2% of mail ballots cast by white voters (down slightly from 50.3% on 10/28).
- Michigan continues to have fewer first time voters than the national average, though it has continued to increase in recent days. As of today, 4.4% of mail ballots cast in Michigan have come from first time voters (up slightly from 4.2% on 10/28). And while there aren't many early in-person votes in Michigan overall, 6.8% of those have been cast by first time voters (up from 6.5% on 10/28).

Wisconsin

- 1,063,432 voters in Wisconsin have cast their mail ballots and 383,071 have voted early in person. Another 270,885 have outstanding mail ballots.
- Young voters (aged 18-29) currently 8.6% of mail ballots cast (up from 8.4% on 10/28) and 5.3% of early in-person votes (up from 4.6% on 10/28).
- Women are still outpacing men in mail ballots cast by a wide margin (13.8%) despite having only a 5.6% registration advantage. However that gap shrinks considerably among early in-person votes, where women hold just a 2.5% advantage.
- Black voters continue to make use of Wisconsin's early in-person voting at high rates. Black voters currently make up 5.6% of early in-person votes and are 5.7% of all registered voters in Wisconsin.

Nevada

- 470,456 voters in Nevada have cast their mail ballots and another 377,151 have voted early in-person. The state of Nevada sent mail ballots to all registered voters this year, so there is no data about ballot requests to report.
- Democrats are currently outpacing Republicans by 20.1% (down from 21.7% on 10/28). Among early in-person votes, Republicans continue to hold an advantage over Democrats by 14.7% (up from 13.7% on 10/28). This is based on official party registration, not modeled partisanship.
- Nevada continues to have a high number of first time voters. 13.3% of mail ballots cast have come from first time voters (up from 13.0% on 10/28), which is well ahead of the 6.8% national average. Among early in-person voters, 9.3% have come from first time voters (up from 9.0% on 10/28), compared to 6.5% nationally.
- Latinx voters' share of mail ballots cast is 12.9% (up slightly from 12.8% on 10/28) and 14.1% of early in-person votes (up slightly from 14.0% on 10/28).
- Black voters' share of mail ballots cast is 9.1% (up slightly from 9.0% on 10/28) and 8.8% of early in-person votes (down slightly from 8.9% on 10/28).

Senate Battleground

Georgia

- 1,050,630 voters in Georgia have cast their mail ballots and 2,098,101 have voted early in-person. Another 447,724 voters have outstanding mail ballots. The total number of ballots cast (both by mail and EIP) represents 76.5% of the total votes cast in Georgia in the 2016 general election.
- Modeled Democrats hold a 4.5% advantage over modeled Republicans in mail ballots cast (down from 4.7% on 10/28). Modeled Republicans hold a 13.9% advantage in early in-person votes (up from 13.1% on 10/28).
- Black voters currently make up 33.3% of mail ballots cast (down slightly from 33.4% on 10/28) and 29.8% of early in-person votes (down from 30.3% on 10/28), which is keeping pace with share of registered voters (33.6%).
- Young voters' vote share in Georgia continues to trend up. Voters aged 18-29 make up 9.1% of mail ballots cast (up from 8.7% on 10/28) and 12.8% of early in-person votes (up from 12.4% on 10/28).
- Young Latinx voters are continuing to turn out at higher rates than young voters in the state overall. Latinx voters under 40 are 37.1% of mail ballots cast by Latinx voters, compared to 17.8% among all voters under 40. Latinx voters under 40 are 46.4% of early in-person votes by Latinx voters, compared to 26.7% among all voters under 40.

North Carolina

- 836,302 voters in North Carolina have cast their ballot by mail and 2,904,083 have voted early in-person. The number of people voting early in-person continues to climb dramatically between each report (646,281 new EIP votes since 10/26).
- Democrats currently have a 26.8% advantage over Republicans in mail ballots cast (down from 28.2 on 10/26) and a 2.2% advantage in early in-person votes (down from 4.9% on 10/26). This is based on official party registration, not modeled partisanship.
- Black voters continue to over-index among early in-person voters, making up 23.1% of votes (down from 24.2% on 10/26) compared to 23.1% of registered voters in North Carolina. Black voters represent 17.0% of mail ballots cast.

Iowa

- 603,112 votes in Iowa have cast their ballots by mail with another 195,371 having voted early in-person. 100,387 voters have outstanding mail ballots.

- Democrats currently hold a 22.7% advantage over Republicans in mail ballots cast (down from 23.3% on 10/28). However, Republicans hold a 1.8% advantage over Democrats in early in-person voters (up from 0.5% on 10/28). This is based on official party registration, not modeled partisanship.
- College-educated white voters make up 39.4% of mail ballots cast by white voters (a number that has been unchanged since 10/21) and 40.1% of mail ballots cast by white voters (down from 40.3% on 10/28).

Arizona

- 1,935,663 voters in Arizona have cast their ballots by mail with another 1,182,178 voters having an outstanding ballot.
- Democrats currently have a 3.5% advantage over Republicans in mail ballots cast (down from 4.8% on 10/28). Republicans currently have more outstanding ballots than Democrats by a margin of 5.5% (down from 6.0% on 10/28). Arizona is one of the only battleground states where Republicans have more outstanding ballots than Democrats. This is using official party registration, not modeled partisanship.
- Latinx voters' share of mail ballots cast has continued to trend up, currently making up 14.6% of mail ballots cast (up from 14.4% on 10/28).
- Young voters' share of mail ballots cast has also continued to increase in Arizona. The share of mail ballots cast by voters aged 18-29 has increased from 9.6% on 10/28 to 10.2% as of today.

Maine

- 291,815 voters in Maine have cast ballots by mail and another 105,549 have voted early in-person. 59,534 voters have outstanding mail ballots.
- Democrats currently hold a 33.8% advantage over Republicans in mail ballots cast (down from 34.6% on 10/28) and a 13.2% advantage in early in-person votes (down from 14.6% on 10/28). This is using official party registration, not modeled partisanship.
- College-educated white voters make up 40.1% of mail ballots cast by white voters (down slightly from 40.2% on 10/28) and 38.5% of early in-person votes (down from 38.8% on 10/28).